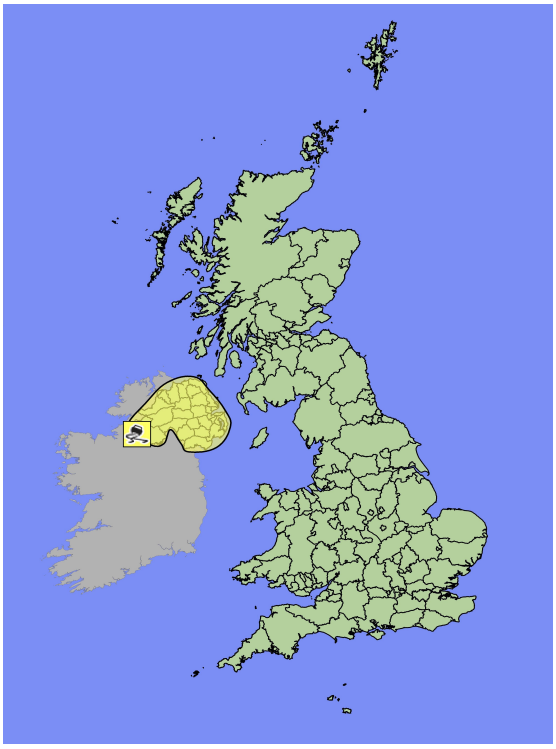
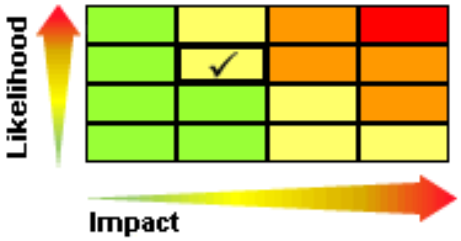
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Following outbreaks of sleet and snow on Monday, clearing skies will bring an increased risk of widespread ice on Monday night and lasting well into Tuesday morning. Some sleet and snow showers are liable to persist in the south and east.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Tue, 22nd Jan 2013 until 11:00 on Tue, 22nd Jan 2013

As outbreaks of snow turn light and patchy overnight, longer clear spells will allow widespread icy stretches to form on untreated roads and pavements, these lasting well into Tuesday morning. Further localised snowfalls of 1-3 cm are still possible in the south and east.
